

The Army-Navy football game yesterday was a great event in army and navy circles.

Washington lovers of the sport, and they were numerous, went over to Philadelphia for the day. The Secretary of War entertained a large party, including Miss Roosevelt, Miss Marion Oliver, the popular young daughter of the Assistant Secretary of War; the Misses Hitchcock, and many others prominent in official, diplomatic and resident circles.

For the first time in the history of Army and Navy athletics, the teams played before spectators one-third of whom paid for admission to the grounds, in consequence the representatives of the most "exclusive army and navy circles," members of the smart set, and many whose places were below—the "salt" touched elbows and mingled in the crowd together. United in their enthusiasm over the game, caste was forgotten and social lines for once, were rubbed away.

In Philadelphia it was the crowning social event of the week. The game was preceded by many luncheons and dinners, and followed by theater parties and suppers. In the country a number of house parties were arranged, beginning with the Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday afternoon, and lasting until after the game of yesterday.

Another event of interest the past week was the opening of the Chevy Chase hunting season, which took place on Thanksgiving day, under the leadership of Clarence Moore, master of hounds.

In accordance with the time-honored custom, the meet was at the club house. The pack, which was east to the north of the club house, set a stiff pace across the Watkins farm, where the several awkward jumps encountered by the riders brought a number of them to the ground, all of whom, however, were quickly up and off again.

Among those who responded to the call of the hunter's horn were William Marv, who returned to Washington to take part in the first hunt of the season Mr. A. Grip, minister from Sweden and Norway; Reginald Huidekoper, and Arthur Addison, whose daring riding on Chestnut was a feature of the run. Prominent among the women who are often seen in the saddle are Mrs. Moore, Miss Newlands, Miss Langhorn, Miss Postlethwaite, Miss Bloomer, Miss Elkins, and Miss Ely.

Dinners.

The Persian minister and Mrs. Calderon will give a dinner tomorrow evening in honor of the Secretary of the Navy and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Darling.

Senator Mr. Depew will entertain at dinner on December 5 in honor of Senator Mr. Thomas C. Platt.

Mrs. Auldred has invitations out for December for a dinner in honor of Representative and Mrs. George B. McClellan.

Luncheons.

Mrs. Chas. Longstreet Post gave luncheon today in honor of Miss Webb. Covers were laid for fourteen. The guests included Mrs. William Morris Austin, Miss Poor, Miss Sanger, Miss Errol Bron, Miss Fuller, Miss Edes, Miss Kellie, Miss Lawrence, Miss Cassels, Miss Eleanor Parker, Miss Sargent, and Miss Gove.

Weddings.

Miss Ida Blackstone Riley, daughter of Mrs. William R. Riley, and Andrew McKinney of New York, will be married in St. Thomas' Church Tuesday at noon. Mr. Riley will be attended by Miss Alma McNeely, of Philadelphia, as maid of honor, and Miss Marie Garnett and Miss Edith Benham, both of this city, as bridesmaids. Mr. McKinney will be attended by Miss John S. James, E. B. Hart, and R. Gerber.

The bridegroom will be of white satin, trimmed with rare old lace. The maids will wear pink cloth gowns and large white hats. After the ceremony at the church a wedding breakfast will be served at the home of the bride in Iowa Circle.

and Mrs. Estes gave a reception in honor of General Howard last Thursday evening, affording an opportunity for a number of old friends to greet the general.

Miss Jennie Moore, of Cheyenne, Wyo., is spending a short time in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Eckhardt celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding at their home, 58 New York Avenue northeast, on Friday evening last.

Mrs. Josephine E. Bradstreet, the artist, and well known for her portrayals of flower and plant life, has taken a studio in the Taberna, of the Halls of the Ancients, where she is engaged in reproducing antique, Pompeian, Grecian, and Egyptian vases. Mrs. Bradstreet, whose home is in Maine, was accompanied to this city by her daughter, Miss Eulalie.

Miss Katherine Ridgely, the attractive daughter of William Barrett Ridgely, Controller of the Currency, has been a much feted young woman since her advent in Chicago society. A few days ago she was again the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hotz, of 17 Astor Street, Chicago, and Friday she was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. David L. Briggs, of Astor Street. Early in January Miss Ridgely will join the Washington debutantes, when she will be presented by her grandmother, Mrs. Shelby Culom, wife of Senator Culom.

When the Third Field Battery of the Artillery Corps, notable among other things for their march from Chickamauga Park, where they were previously stationed, to Washington, made their first appearance at public drill at Fort Myer Friday afternoon they were most enthusiastically received by a large crowd of spectators. Among the number were General Oliver, Assistant Secretary of War; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, Miss Oliver and Captain and Mrs. Anderson.

An enjoyable party was given on Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Schwink, 1114 I Street southeast, the occasion being the fifth birthday of their little daughter, Pansy Roscoe. The house was crowded with the young friends of the little hostess, and the evening was devoted to games and musical selections, after which refreshments were served.

Among those present were Beatrice Schwenk, Mildred Thompson, Mercia Baxter, Ethel Ruth, and Raymond Holliday, Annie Fraime, Myrtle Burrows, Willie Littleford, Ethel Torney, Bessie Winona, George, and John Prender, Lena and Lizzie Mienberg, Pauline and Gertrude Bateman, Maude, Mildred, and Willie McDaniel, Bernetta Trellida, Bernice and George McAvoy, Katie Schwenk, Archie Fletcher, Eva Stewart, Morel Depro, Lillian Nally, George Anquet, Brandy Pyles, Earl Walker, Mabel Flood, Eva Gray, Emma Mitchell, Arthur Shaffer, Della Carruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan Padgett, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shelton, Mrs. Hattie Burrows, Mrs. Earl R. A WEDDING CELEBRATION. The spacious and beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wetley, 1000 Pennsylvania Avenue southeast, was the scene of a brilliant gathering Monday evening, November 23, the occasion being the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage.

The host and hostess were assisted by Mrs. James M. Kinchloe, of Upperville, Va.; Mrs. Bentley Kern, of Winchester, Va.; Mrs. Walter Campbell, of Luray, Va.; and the Misses Kinchloe, of Virginia, sisters of the hostess. The circular bay window of the drawing room, in which the receiving party stood, was banked with palms, ferns, and large chrysanthemums. The mantels in the drawing room, reception room, and library were banked with ferns, and upon each stood a tall vase containing large chrysanthemums, which, with American beauty roses, were the prevailing decorations in all the rooms. Southern amylax was garlanded on the stairway, across the portieres, and over the windows. In the reception room numerous and handsome cut glass gifts were displayed. In the library the orchestra which furnished music was hidden behind a screen of ferns, palms, and potted plants. Refreshments were served in the dining room to 150 guests.

Mrs. Wetley wore a gown of cream-colored crepe de chine, trimmed with Irish point lace and pearls, and diamond ornaments; Mrs. Kinchloe, white henrietta, with lace trimmings; Mrs. Kern, pearl crepe de chine, trimmed with lace and beads; Miss Kinchloe, black lace; Miss Ella Kinchloe, white mousseline; Mrs. Campbell, white silk with point lace over dress; Miss Campbell, orange crepe de chine; Miss Bertha Herrell wore a handsome gown of cream lace over white silk, and diamond ornaments; Mrs. Wetley was formerly Miss Bertha Kinchloe, of Fauquier county, Va.
